

NEW SERIES

QUEER AND TRANS INTERSECTIONS

from the University of Wales Press

Queer and Trans Intersections, from the University of Wales Press, aims to address subjects and themes important to LGBTQIA+ peoples around the world by exploring the changing landscape of queer and trans identity and politics across a range of subjects such as queer and trans art, music, film, literature, etc. The series seeks to capture debates around inclusivity and exclusivity, new queer and trans trajectories, and emerging queer and trans issues caused by neoliberalism. As such it will offer truly intersectional, interdisciplinary and global approaches to sexual and gender diversity in the past, present and future. There will be a particular focus on global regions that are often ignored.

The strategy for the series is to make timely, scholarly interventions into this important, interdisciplinary field of research with ground-breaking monographs and edited volumes. Aligning with the series' philosophy of promoting diversity and inclusivity, proposals are encouraged from scholars at all career stages, and also independent scholars, from a broad cross section of groups, including marginalised and under-represented groups.

Possible topics include but are not limited to:

- Queer and Trans issues in the Global South
- Queer and Trans Diasporas
- Queer and Trans Indigeneity
- Queer and Trans Ecologies
- Queer and Trans Disabilities
- Queer and Trans Fantastic in the Arts
- Queer and Trans Decoloniality
- Queer and Trans Medicine

SERIES EDITORS:

Ardel Haefele-Thomas, City College of San Francisco, USA
Luke Chwala, Clemson University, USA

EDITORIAL BOARD:

- Xavier Aldana Reyes, Manchester Metropolitan University, UK
- Silvia Antosa, Kore University of Enna, Italy
- Barbara Braid, University of Szczecin, Poland
- Paisley Currah, The City University of New York, USA
- Qwo-Li Driskill, Oregon State University, USA
- Joseph Goh, Monash University, Malaysia
- Josephine Ho, National Central University, Taiwan
- Alexis Lothian, University of Maryland, College Park, USA
- Royce Mahawatte, Central Saint Martins, University of the Arts London, UK
- Tomasz Sikora, Pedagogical University of Kraków, Poland
- Francis Ray White, University of Westminster, UK

Please send initial expressions of interest to Ardel Haefele-Thomas (athomas@ccsf.edu) and Luke Chwala (gchwala@clemson.edu).

GWASG PRIFYSGOL CYMRU
UNIVERSITY OF WALES PRESS